

LUNCHTIME SEMINAR

FEATURING: Officer Joey Scarfo!

Identity Theft: What It Is and How to Prevent It

This short session features Officer Joey Scarfo, a former Marine Explosive Detection Bomb Dog Handler assigned to the HMX 1/U.S Secret Service in protection of the President of the U.S., the First Lady, and all Diplomats foreign and domestic. He is presently the Community Resource Officer for NASA Protective Services and fulfills a full-time position as the Special Reaction Team Leader.

What is the first thing that you should do when you discover that your wallet was missing from your possession?

How many resource/agency numbers should you keep on your person when traveling?

What are the most common types of Identity Theft today?

How do you protect yourself and your family from Identity Theft in relation to common computer use?

Instructor's Key Points will be:

- The Identity Theft and Assumption Deterrence Act of 1998
- Why Identity Theft is so lucrative
- Preventative Actions
- Reporting Identity Theft

Date: Thursday, May 13th

Time: 11:30am – 12:30pm
(Bring a brown bag lunch -or- order from Charlie's Grill right next door.)

Location: Bldg. 4200, Rm G13-C
Self-Study Learning Center

To participate in this lunchtime seminar, please contact the Self-Study Learning Center Team via the information given below.

(Maximum Participants - 30)

NOTE: This is a live, instructor-led seminar. There are no participant materials associated with this course.

Denise McCaul & Gloria Turner
Marshall Institute's
Self-Study Learning Center
Building 4200, Rm G13
Phone: 544-8291
E-mail: selfstudy@msfc.nasa.gov

/26/04